Networking, researching, consulting – founded in 2021, this is what the German Institute for Interdisciplinary Social Policy Research (DIFIS) does. DIFIS is a focal point, an independent think tank and a service facility for social policy research, teaching and policy advice in Germany. High-quality social policy research offers knowledge, strategies and recommendations to the general public, politicians and public administration. To this end, DIFIS engages with the challenges facing society and initiates new research on the future development of the welfare state and social protection.
